ONE YEAR OLD.

THE EVENING WORLD celebrates to-day its First Anniversary.It is a healthy, happy and hustling youngster. In one year it has attained and held a larger circulation than evening contemporaries that have been established for half a century.Some of the things that have made THE EVENING WORLD a success are modestly mentioned in other columns. But the bottom reason of all is that it has met a popular need and served the "plain people's" interests.
The people have made it a success by buying it, reading it, praising it and standing by it.
The remarkable representative opinions on this page reflect the public sentiment.THE EVENING WORLD was started on the plan of furnishing a two-cent paper to one-cent buyers. In this sign it has conquered.
No journal can live and grow on its past.
The new features introduced to-day are but an earnest of the continuous progress which THE EVENING WORLD purposes to make.
Its motto is "Onward and Upward."

"BREAD GOES UP."

Bread goes up. The city bakers have determined to advance the price of the regulation loaf and of all bread sold by them or to decrease the size of the article. The poor man suffers, but "Old Huren" the grain gambler, and other speculative operators who have followed his lead in "cornering" the market, put millions in their pockets.Bread goes up. Do our well-to-do citizens and our law-makers realize what this means for the poor? Do they know that it takes from the hungry child one-half its present scanty morning meal? Do they understand that it means increased privation, more gnawing hunger, greater suffering and misery for the half-paid day laborer and less than half-paid workingwoman of the city?Yet "Old Huren" and his fellow-gamblers chuckle over the gains they have made on "bread goes up," and the law, which suppresses the faro bank and the roulette table does not seek to interfere with the more profitable and far more disgraceful game of these market cornerers.Cool goes up just as the winter cold comes upon us. Sugar goes up, and the poor man finds himself compelled to abandon the use of that necessary of every-day life. Does any one appreciate the evil this is to the tollers, whose earnings are barely sufficient to subsist them from day to day? Is a thought bestowed on the privations which these announcements of advancing prices forebode?[We are told by our statesmen that the Trusts, which raise the cost of coal and sugar to the consumer, are "private affairs," and Congress wastes months over political schemes and neglects to apply the restraints of the law to these lawless conspiracies of capital against the public weal.

THOSE WHITECHAPEL BUTCHERIES.

The Spiritualists are taking a hand in the attempt to discover the Whitechapel mur-derer. The mediums have called up the spirits of the victims, and the latter are giving descriptions of the assassin who took their lives. Thus far they agree on one point. The man wore a black coat. But as black coats are in general use in London, and as a man who was about to commit a murder and mangle the corpse would not be likely to wear a white coat, or any other light color which would readily show blood stains, nor to go about his butcher's work in his shirt-sleeves, the information from the spirit world is not of much practical value to the detectives thus far.Nevertheless, it is not so foolish as it may appear to invoke the aid of the mediums in the detection of these terrible crimes. The London police will at least feel that they have competition for the credit of the discovery of the murderer, and this may prove some incentive to them to exercise their genius in working up the case. Up to this time they have displayed the densest stupidity and ineptness in the business of unearthing the mystery.and after all the people may have more faith in the spiritual informers than in the Scotland Yard detectives and the city police force.

WHAT MAINTAINS WAGES.

Gov. HILL has a great talent for going to the root of questions.
While partisan theorists on both sides were swapping contradictions as to the real law of wages, Gov. HILL applied directly to the men who earn and the men who pay wages.
It was an inspiration. Others may guess.
These men know.The Bureau of Labor Statistics applied to manufacturers and to labor unions. Over one thousand three hundred employers reported wages the same or higher than five years ago (disposing of the tariff scare), and over 60 per cent. of them attributed the increase wholly to "organization of labor." No employer claimed to have raised wages voluntarily. Only six attributed the increase to "Protection."Over 500 labor organizations, representing 114,000 members, emphatically affirmed that the maintenance of wages is due wholly to the union of workmen.Gov. Hill's Cooper Union speech was the ablest and most effective campaign effort yet made in this city.

OUR AUTOGRAPH COLLECTION.

WORLDLINGS.

John Wannamaker, the great Philadelphia merchant, is said to be the most heavily insured man in the country. The policies which he carries on his life aggregate more than $1,000,000.The Chicago speculator who next to "Old Huren" made the largest winnings out of the wheat corner is William T. Baker, whose profits will reach $500,000. Last winter he made $250,000 in corn.It has always been an open question how many people were burned to death in the great Chicago fire. The Chicago Times, in a recent issue, says that altogether 117 bodies were taken from the smoldering ruins of the city.A prominent woman lawyer of Ohio is Miss Florence Crummett, of Tiffin. She has been in active practice for fifteen years, and has secured a competence and a large list of clients.The people of Illinois, N. H., who passed Mr. Eaton's house on Hennick street, used to wonder what caused the concrete pavement to swell up in a certain spot, where an elevation like a cone had formed. Finally they opened the cone and found that a modest tontine had pushed up the thick and heavy concrete wall growing.

Well-Earned Rest.

[From Paris.]

Bigbee (entering his friend's room)—Good gracious, Walker! What monkey-shines are these?
Walker—Oh, I'm just giving my feet a little well-earned rest. I passed a civil-service examination a year ago, and I've been going down town every day since then to see about my chances for an appointment.

AN ANNIVERSARY ODE.

A year ago great FREDERICK lived, and planned Peace and reform for all the Rhine's fair land; A year ago Louis-Philippe's reign found GLADSTONE's her guide, her feet on sugar ground; A year ago the czar his homestead sought And watched a score of autocrats while they slept; A year ago gay, gaudy, giddy FRANCE Saw Europe's fashions and led on the dance; A year ago where STANLEY pushed his van On to where Nile's historic waters began; A year ago grand old DEMOCRACY Reigned o'er Columbia, prosperous and free!A year ago their HILL the PEOPLE loved And praised him for the virtues he had proved;
The THREE were protected by their golden mail Sold to the world, since all the world's for sale!
The MILLIONAIRES devoted to the TOLLERS may In seven days have but one Holiday.The BOTTLE rolled on its deadly path Rejoicing of the People's rising wrath; The ORPHAN Boy was from his loved ones torn And tumbled to suffer, mysterious, forlorn;
The People's pleasure ground, mislabeled a PARK, Was by the rich man's whim shut up at dark;
A year ago, on this thrice happy morn, THE EVENING WORLD, to right their wrongs was born!Presto—Reform down from her lofty throne, Stepped, and the masses knew her for their own!
Ready to all their cries an ear to lend A doctor, counselor and steadfast friend;
The tollers plucked up courage once they knew Their friend, mouthful, powerful and true!Their winter evenings thoughtfully to fill, Behold THE EVENING WORLD's Free Lecture Bill!
The gates, that STREVESENTER never meant to be,
Are open, and their PARK at last is free!Their little ones to guard, the "EXTENDED DAY" They've brought to seek to love, and home's sweet joy!The JOURNALISM yielded to their stern demand, The BOTTLE car by law henceforth is banned!
The happy scholar who has kept the rules Reads the long roll of MERRY in the schools!Rank Police's agnail and drops her jaw To see her minions punished by the Law!
The pick in stuns who suffered in despair Take heart to see THE WORLD's own order there!A hundred thousand friends—who once had none, Gladly work a work as gallantly begun!

Trains Delayed by a Washout.

SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.
ST. JOHN, N. H., Oct. 10.—The first through train from Boston since Saturday night on the New Brunswick Railroad left here last night, being detained by washouts caused by the heavy rains.
The water has caused great destruction to the hay and buckwheat crops of Queens and Carleton counties. Baras have been swept away.

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT

Laborers and Millionaires Praise
"The Evening World."A Chorus of Compliments for Our First Birthday.A Glowing Tribute from New York's Governor.Gov. David B. Hill—As an infant industry THE EVENING WORLD needs no protection. It succeeds because it deserves success.John J. Sullivan, delegate of the State and Metal Roofers' Union—It is an honest and fearless newspaper, fair and enterprising in its reports on all labor matters.Sheriff Grant—It is a very lively little paper. It deserves its success. I would like to see it have a circulation of 500,000.Robert P. Porter, Editor of The Press—THE EVENING WORLD is a splendid illustration of what enterprise, energy and newspaper ability can do in this great metropolis. A year ago it did not exist; to-day it is a thoroughly established factory, in my opinion, a unique paper, and fills a niche which no other paper does. I have noticed that THE EVENING WORLD never gets left on any piece of news which develops during the hours of its publication. Mr. Pulitzer and his able assistants deserve the thanks of the people of New York. They have been instrumental in making all the newspapers more energetic and watchful to the wants of the two or three millions of people in and around New York; and that last enterprise should be handsomely rewarded is no more than fair. I cordially wish THE EVENING WORLD continued success and prosperity. It is young, but, like some other journalistic youngsters, strong, vigorous and here to stay.A NEWSPAPER MAN'S ESTIMATE.
Edwin Atwell, managing editor of the Graphic—In many respects THE EVENING WORLD is an anomaly in New York daily journalism. Its character is all its own. No newspaper in town shows such distinct originality in the directions of its enterprise. It gives the news and more; for it tells its stories in a manner peculiar to itself; and its stories are peculiar to itself too. I would read it every night for its special features only, and I think THE EVENING WORLD can be congratulated on the success it has made.GEORGE GOULD LIKES IT.
George Gould—Do I read THE EVENING WORLD?
Indeed I do. I read it in the night, in my study and take it to my home every evening.ALEXANDER D. ORR, President of the Gratiuity Fund of the Produce Exchange—I think it gets the news, and all the news, too, and quicker than many of its contemporaries. The Foster case is a good example, though, of the manner in which THE EVEN-ING WORLD gets all the news. I was not satisfied of the forgeries until 2 o'clock that afternoon, when THE EVENING WORLD had it all and had the facts published in its first edition, and was for sale on the street, I believe, at 1 o'clock, an hour before I knew the full story. It's almost too bright.COL. E. K. HAIN, of "L" road fame—I read THE EVENING WORLD every night. I find it has all the news in such a shape that I can master its contents in half the time it takes me to get through the other sheets, and therefore I may say it is my favorite journal in the evening.R. M. GILBERT, Vice-President of the Manhattan Elevated Road—Is THE EVENING WORLD a year old? Well, well, how time flies! Certainly I read it. So does every man who wants the news in a nutshell. I think it is a first-class newspaper.
I'm sure it's a sturdy brack.WASHINGTON E. CONNER—I read it every evening.
I have done so since the first issue. I believe I will continue to do so while I live. I read it because it is ably edited, well conducted, and a wonderful newspaper in every respect.EX-SENATOR KIERMAN—His success is phenomenal.
I read it and like it.FRED ELEY, with Hollins & Co., bankers and brokers—I like its make-up.HENRY SELIGMAN, banker in the Mills Building—I am always glad to pick up THE EVENING WORLD.
It gives me a good idea of the news of the day.CHARLES MINTENBERGER, broker at 16 Wall street—I use the paper quite often, and cannot say too much in praise of it. I hope to put in a good word for it on many returns of its natal day. I admire its independence, and the stand it always takes in defense of the weak and unprotected.WHAT A WORKINGMAN SAYS.
James P. Archibald, Master Workman of National Trades District of Painters, Paperhangers and Interior Decorators—It's a splendid newspaper.EDWARD FINKLESTEIN, President of the Barbers' National Union—It is a very enterprising newspaper, alive to the topics of the day, full of interest and friendly to organized labor.ERNEST BOHM, Secretary and Statistician of the Central Labor Union—It is an excellent newspaper, especially for laboring people.JOHN MORTON, Master Workman of District Assembly No. 1 of Carpenters and Delegates to the Central Labor Union—THE EVENING WORLD is a splendid newspaper. I believe its circulation has been increased by giving so much space to labor news.JAMES P. MCKIM, delegate of the United Order of American Carpenters and Joiners—It is a very good newspaper.LEWIS MCCORD, delegate of Lodge No. 3, United Order of American Carpenters and Joiners—I like it first rate.REV. DR. BARNETT, pastor of the Church of the Epiphany—It is an enterprising paper. It showed considerable enterprise recently in publishing the histories of the Roman Catholic churches in this city. They were all that one could wish for.REV. FATHER COLTON, pastor of St. Stephen's Roman Catholic Church—It is a good newspaper and enterprising. The church history recently published should of itself recommend it to the Catholic people. These histories of the churches were a good idea.REV. FATHER J. CHADWICK—THE EVENING WORLD is a good, bright paper. I also recommend it for its treatment of the Church. Its histories of the Catholic churches, recently published, were a bright piece of newspaper work.C. C. HIGGINS, Secretary of the Manhattan Athletic Club—The sporting column of THE EVENING WORLD is the most interesting that is published.MR. MICHAEL DWYER—I always read the racing reports in THE EVENING WORLD Sporting Extra with great pleasure.LIKES ITS POLITICAL NEWS.
EX-REPRESENTATIVE JOHN HOLLY—THE EVENING WORLD is read by me every day. I like its local news, especially its local political news.JOHN R. COOK, of Hudson & Co., Wholesale Carpet Merchants—I think THE EVENING WORLD the best afternoon paper published. I admire the way in which it attacks all racial and combinations to oppress the poor. The article on the Hudson & Carpet Merchants is a masterpiece of all.BENJAMIN MARSHALL, of Fulton Market—Your sporting extra is the best published. Its reports of sporting events are full and accurate, and it often contains very interesting news that the other extras miss.JOSEPH SALTER, fruit dealer, Fulton Market—THE EVENING WORLD is a humor. It is the best paper published.JOHN STEVENSON, Fulton Market—THE EVENING WORLD is a newspaper in the fullest sense of the word.CHIEF TRAIN'S YELLOW-FEVER LECTURE.
George Francis Train will lecture in Clarendon Hall to-morrow evening for the benefit of the Jacksonville sufferers, telling his personal experiences of yellow fever. CHIEF TRAIN'S mother, father and three sisters fell victims to the dread disease.in Harlem, and I want to find fault. How is it that we cannot always get the last edition up?
There? I had to wait six blocks the other evening before I could get a copy. The newsdealers must sell out all their copies very quickly.EX-WARDEN WAISH—THE EVENING WORLD pounded me, but I forgive it. It gave my daughter a fair show when she made her debut on the stage. You know I have been an enemy of THE WORLD, but I must say, to be fair, that your afternoon edition is a good one. But no more for saying that much, and, mind you, I am not carrying any favors, although I may run for Congress.REGISTER SLEVIN—The circulation of the paper speaks for itself. It could not get where it has got unless it had the "get there" stroke.GEN. SPINOLA—I predict that THE EVENING WORLD will prove as big a success as its morning parent.INSPECTOR STEERS—It is a bright, cheery paper.
Full of news well put together, and I feel lost if I do not get it every evening.IT ADVOCATES THE POOR'S CAUSE.
FRANK FERRELL, the colored Labor leader and organizer, THE EVENING WORLD is a good, bright newspaper. It advocates the cause of the poor and friendless and opposes the oppressors. May it long live to push the good work in my wish.DR. JEREMIAH CONGILIN, of the United Labor party and Anti-Poverty Society—It is a fine paper.
We are thankful for its treatment of us during the Anti-Poverty fair. Its articles are gems and its editorials contain sense and wisdom.GEORGE NORMAN, of the United Labor Party—Why, it's the best evening paper published, and the only one that gives the labor people and Anti-Poverty a fair show. I congratulate it on its anniversary.MICHAEL CLARKE, Secretary of the Anti-Poverty Society—A good paper, a clean sheet and a champion fighter in the cause of what is just and right.
John H. Feeley, United Labor party leader—Oh, yes; the best to New York. It stood by us Anti-Poverties manfully and helped us wonderfully.JAMES MCCONNELL, of United Labor party fame—Our only friend. It's bright and newsworthy and like its parent, a fighter.DR. SYLVESTER MALONE, Treasurer of the Anti-Poverty Society—A first-rate newspaper. It treats all alike. Its editorials, particularly those on the arrests at the fair, and its cartoons speak for themselves. I like its manly spirit and wish it many years of prosperity.GEORGE SMITH, United Labor party man—Our friend, and a bright, good friend it has been. One of the brightest papers ever published.DR. MCCARTHY, of Anti-Poverty and land-tax fame—A bright sheet, indeed.DANIEL O'DAIR, Labor leader in the Twenty-second District—THE EVENING WORLD is a great success, as it justly deserves to be. Like its parent, it is with the people, always to be found on the side of the oppressed and constantly advocating the cause of the poor and down-trodden. It is indeed a paper of papers. I wish it success and greet it cordially on its first anniversary.WILLIAM O'DAIR, Machinist and Labor Leader—The first anniversary! Good; hope it sees many more. It's bright, newsworthy and just what was wanted in this town. It is the friend of the workingman.LOUIS P. DELAN, ex-President of Furniture and Carpet Employers' Association—I congratulate the infant on its first birthday. Though young in years it's a plant in strength. A friend of the worker, a bright newspaper, and the champion of the poor and oppressed. All this is THE EVENING WORLD.JOHN G. HOMER, head of the Literary Department at Republican Headquarters—THE EVENING WORLD is the only afternoon paper in the city that I read.THE BEST SPORTING PAPER.
JOHN E. DEMPEY, the Nonpareil—There is no sporting paper I know that is better than THE EVENING WORLD.JOCKEY GARRISON—Every one gets a fair show in THE EVENING WORLD and no fear of snoring up a fraud or wrong decision is ever shown.JOHN KELLY, manager of betting arrangements on the race-tracks—The Extra Sporting EVENING WORLD is a wonder, and I hear it commended on all sides.JAMES E. SULLIVAN, President Pastime Athletic Club—The amateur athletic news in THE EVENING WORLD is a splendid feature.BILLY EDWARDS, ex-champion light-weight pugilist—Every sporting man who comes into the Hoffman House speaks well of THE EVENING WORLD.
At Smith—I know anything I see in the sporting columns of THE EVENING WORLD is sure to be right.ALBERT M. FRY, Billy Bennett, Billy Robertson, Denny Costigan, Charles Manning, Billy Sexton, Hale Robinson, Hale Robinson, Jack Elder, Frank Stevenson, Colin Anderson, Harry Hill, Billy Oliver, Jerry Delaney, Arney Schram, James E.
Gardwin, Michael Buge, Warren Lewis, Tom Henry and M. W. Ford—We consider THE EVEN-ING WORLD unapproachable.READ AT THE CLUB.
HENRY CREWS—I regard the paper as a very great success. I read it regularly. The news is condensed, and you get it all. I find that it is rather in demand in the clubs I go to, the Union and the Union League, and I hear it well spoken of. It is undoubtedly a first-class paper.MR. BENEDICT, of Benedict Brothers, Broadway—It is a remarkable paper, and it is certainly a good advertising medium.JUDGE GRANVILLE P. HAYES—It is a nice, bright, breezy little paper; wonderful for a cent. I get it often than any other evening paper, though I differ in politics. It is the kind of paper I like.CORONER FERDINAND LEVY—THE EVENING WORLD is a remarkably good paper. It is up on all the news of the day, and full of interesting features.JUDGE HENRY GILDERMAN—THE EVENING WORLD is bright and cheery. It is remarkably accurate in its news-stories.INSPECTOR WILLIAMS—I have read it from the start. I wouldn't go to bed without having a look at its bright, spicy columns.SUPT. JASPER of the Board of Education—THE EVENING WORLD has done two good things in the evening paper world. It has raised the level of the best column in the school.JUDGE KATHOLPH R. MARTINE—I am full of good features. It is concise and exact in its news facts, and that is what the people want. It is spicy, too, and entertaining. It is a phenomenal paper.POLICE CAPT. JOHN MCDONALD—It is a nice, good paper. It suits me.JANICE CHARLES M. CLANCY—THE EVENING WORLD is a news sheet. The younger element like it, too. I read it regularly. Couldn't get along without it.SUPT. MURRAY'S OPINION.
SUPT. MURRAY—It is a bright, spicy paper, with good news and a great deal of enterprise and push. It is a fine paper.SUPT. RICHMOND—Any one who has faith in the people would conclude that THE EVENING WORLD is a success. I have faith in the public judgment.JOHN R. COOK, of Hudson & Co., Wholesale Carpet Merchants—I think THE EVENING WORLD the
best afternoon paper published. I admire the way in which it attacks all racial and combinations
to oppress the poor. The article on the Hudson &

Everybody May Play Detective in the Whitechapel Mystery.

To the Editor of The Evening World:

The publicity given by the press to the Whitechapel murders has aroused much curiosity and comment among all classes of people upon the probable causes which led to the first, to the second, to the third, to the fourth, to the fifth, to the sixth, to the seventh, to the eighth,
